Reds Brush-Off Bid To Talk Viet Peace

BULLETIN
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko charged today that the United States is trying to delude the world by peace talk while launching military action which at any moment "can draw new states" into the Vietnam conflict.

In a major policy speech before the U.N. General Assembly, Gromyko delivered a stinging reply to Thursday's address by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg who sought to get a commitment that Hanoi would enter peace talks if the United States halted its bombing of North Vietnam.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko deals with the Vietnam question today, after Moscow brushed off a new U.S. challenge to Hanoi for negotiations to end the war.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, dismissed as misleading a call by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg for North Vietnam and its allies to indicate if a bombing halt would lead to meaningful talks.

"He (Goldberg) emphasized right away," Tass said, "that the United States was not going to fulfill the chief preliminary condition without which no talks on a Vietnamese settlement are possible—to stop unconditionally bombing raids against North Vietnam."

Tass branded as "contrary to fact" Goldberg's assertion before the General Assembly Thursday that the United States was committed to a political rather than military solution in Vietnam.

Sources said Gromyko had prepared an hour-long General Assembly speech touching on Vietnam, the Middle East situation and disarmament negotiations in Geneva.

Without naming him specifically, Goldberg had directed this question to the Soviet foreign minister: "If the United States were to take the first step

Cuba Exports Subversion:

Claim Che Guevara Helps Bolivian Rebels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Hemisphere ministers opened a conference on the Castro-Communist threat today with a report that Ernesto "Che" Guevara, long missing from Cuba, is with guerrillas in the Bolivian jungles.

Bolivian Foreign Minister Walter Guevara Arze said he would produce for the foreign affairs chiefs photos and other captured documents indicating that Guevara, one-time top aide to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, is helping the insurrection in mountainous Bolivia.

The documents are also being shown in Bolivia by President Rene Barrientos, it was reported here.

The three-day high-level meeting of the 21 Organization of American States members was called by Venezuela, a long-time prime target of Castro's revolutionary exports. Venezuela had a nine-point proposal for tightening the OAS quarantine against Cuba.

Drops From Sight
Che Guevara was last seen publicly in Cuba about two and one-half years ago. And for a time was thought to have been killed. But Castro has mentioned him occasionally, indicated he still is active.

U.S. strategists hope the session will demonstrate hemispheric solidarity against Castro's exports of subversion and boost already adopted OAS policies.

They doubt the OAS will vote for any dramatic new action such as an economic blockade or a hemisphere-wide boycott of non-Communist countries trading with Cuba.

Venezuela's proposals include OAS denunciation of Cuban "persistent acts of aggression," a renewed appeal to Western countries to curb their trade with Cuba, a call on Moscow and Peking to quit encouraging Havana's subversion, and tighter policing measures among the OAS states to prevent entry of persons, arms, funds and propaganda from Cuba.

However, Romney said he had not made up his mind on any "special announcement."

One idea considered in preliminary discussions—was to send a

Steel Truckers Strike Erupts In I 94 Gunfire

JACKSON — (AP) — Bullets punctured the tires on six trucks along I 94 today as gunfire apparently connected with an eight-state Teamsters dispute erupted for the first time in Michigan.

State Police said they assumed the incidents were related to a current strike by owner-drivers of steel-hauling rigs who are demanding a larger share of hauling fees from the firms for which they drive.

There were no reports of any injuries.

All the vehicles were carrying steel, according to State Police.

Two truck drivers reported having tires shot flat while their vehicles were parked along I 94 about 3:30 a.m.

Four other drivers reported their tires were punctured as they drove along I 94 east of Jackson between 4:30 a.m. and 5:30 a.m.

In all but one incident, drivers said shots apparently came from passing cars, west-bound, as were the trucks. One truck's tires were hit on the right side, indicating shots came from a roadside ditch.

Three Mummified Infants Mystify New York Police

NEW YORK (AP) — The case of three mummified newborn babies—found entombed in a trunk more than 40 years after they were born—will most likely remain a mystery forever, says Chief Medical Examiner Milton Heppner.

Heppner said after autopsies Thursday that he doubted the bizarre mystery would be solved.

"Because of advanced mummification," he said, "we'll never know if they were born dead or alive, or if alive, what caused their deaths."

He said he had no doubt that the infants were newly born when they were swaddled in cloth and nearly wrapped in New York City newspapers dated in 1920, 1922 and 1923.

John Hartnett, superintendent of a 65-year-old, six-story apartment house in upper Manhattan, came across the trunk Wednesday night as he was cleaning out a cluttered basement room.

The old-fashioned steamer trunk bore the name of Anne Solomon, who died in 1954 at the age of 87.

Today's Chuckle

Old salesmen never die—they just get out of commission.

Missions from the carrier Corral Sea were the fourth this month inside Haiphong, but as in the past the port and docking facilities themselves were spared because of the fear of tires each flattened about 5:30 a.m., but the drivers didn't stop until they had reached the safety of a Highway Department scales area near Grass Lake, about eight miles east of Jackson.

One driver reported being shot at between Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor about 5:30 a.m.

The two trucks parked west of Kalamazoo had two tires each shot flat. The drivers changed them and drove until they encountered patrolling troopers from the Paw Paw State Police Post about three miles further west along I 94.

Harassed By Passers

Drivers said the shots came from two dark cars, also headed west, and that they had been "harassed" earlier by passing cars between Battle Creek and Mattawan.

At Ypsilanti, meanwhile, to day State Police reported they had dug from the door moulding of a truck what appeared to be the remains of a .22-caliber bullet fired Thursday from a passing car.

The driver reported hearing something hit his door that splattered and struck him on the arm, but didn't break the skin.

Owner-drivers are demanding that the Teamsters Union gain reopening of contracts with firms for which the owner-drivers work. They want a 79 percent share of the hauling fee plus pay for time spent in mills waiting for loads.

Owner-drivers now get a 73 percent share of the hauling fee.

The Teamsters contend the contracts are binding on the owner-drivers and Frank Fitzsimmons, acting Teamsters president, has declined to discuss their complaints with them until they return to work.

U.S. Bombs Hit Last Undamaged Haiphong Bridge

SAIGON (AP) — Raiding Navy warplanes severed the last undamaged bridge out of the Red port of Haiphong and possibly shot down a MiG fighter attempting to defend the city, the U.S. Command said today.

Red gunners shot down one Navy Crusader jet in the Haiphong area, headquarters said. Radio Hanoi claimed seven American planes were downed in the raids Thursday.

While the air battle raged over North Vietnam's heartland, Communist gunners kept up thunderous barrages along the Demilitarized Zone, aiming about 1,000 shells at the Marine bastions at Con Thien and Gio Linh in the past 24 hours. Seven Marines were killed and 135 wounded. Also wounded was Associated Press photographer Henri Huet.

Block War Supplies

The heavy air raids on Haiphong were intended to keep the war supplies flowing into the key North Vietnamese port from ever reaching those gunners and other Communist troops fighting in the South. The idea is to close roads and rail lines leading out of the port, resulting in a massive pileup of supplies in the city.

Missions from the carrier Corral Sea were the fourth this month inside Haiphong, but as in the past the port and docking facilities themselves were spared because of the fear of endangering Soviet bloc shipping and risking a widening of the war.

Returning pilots said their 500- and 2,000-pound bombs dropped one span of the 658-foot Kien A highway bridge, leading southwest on the only route out of Haiphong which had not been badly pummeled by U.S. raiders. The bridge is 1.7 miles from the city's center.

Skyhawk jets also made their fourth attack since Sept. 11 on the Haiphong railroad-highway bridge one mile west of the city's center.

Another Jet Lost

Above them, four Communist MiG-17s ran into two supersonic Navy Phantom jets protecting the raiders. In a brief, swirling dogfight, one of the Phantoms scored "possible damage" on one of the MiGs.

Nearby, Red ground fire brought down an RF-8 Crusader jet and the pilot was listed as missing. It was the 680th announced combat loss in the North.

American pilots flew 115 missions over North Vietnam Thursday, striking missile sites, bridges, supply targets and rail lines from the Hanoi-Haiphong area down to the scarred area of the Demilitarized Zone where Marine pilots were concentrating on Red gun positions. In addition, high-altitude B-52s twice hit the DMZ area with saturation bombing raids on suspected Red strongholds.

Council Told Of Contest Over RR Pellet Haul Rate

By CLINT DUNATHAN

An impasse over the question of ore handling rates between the Chicago & North Western Railway and the Hanna Mining Co. has brought to a standstill the North Western's plans for a new iron ore terminal here, and elicited a promise by Hanna that it is prepared to build its own dock at Escanaba.

The squabble between the two industrial giants became public at a meeting of the City Council in the City Hall Thursday night.

Statements were presented to the Council by Larry S. Provo, president of the North Western, and by R. H. Bartholomew, assistant to the president, Hanna Mining Co., Cleveland.

Yard Plans Suspended

They brought from Mayor Harold Vanlerberghe the earnest comment that "Escanaba is willing and eager to cooperate with industry — any industry — and the wish that 'you two giants can reach agreement.'

Provo speaking first, said the North Western "is temporarily suspending its plans on the construction of its proposed new multimillion dollar iron ore terminal at Escanaba."

"The Railway Co. has found it necessary to take this step because it has been informed that the Hanna Mining Co. intends to build its own private dock north of Escanaba."

Holding Program

The City, by industrial development bonding, was to act cooperatively in financing the North Western's expansion, and Provo said the North Western is grateful and that "we regret that because of Hanna's action we must at least temporarily hold up our program for further evaluation."

"The construction of a private duplicating facility by Hanna will result in substantial diversion of iron ore tonnage we are presently handling," said Provo. "Such an action by Hanna completely changes the economy of our new ore transfer facility as originally planned."

While we are calling a halt to our program to review the matter under these new circumstances, I wish to emphasize that the North Western will give full consideration to the construction of an iron ore facility designed to meet the year-around as well as seasonal requirements of all other Upper Peninsula ore producers."

Great Disappointment

Provo described "Hanna's action as a great disappointment and we hope it will reconsider its proposal in the light of the adverse effect it would have on the transportation economy of Upper Michigan as a whole. For some time Upper Michigan has been economically depressed and there is no question that its common carrier railroads are severely under-utilized and fully able to meet all transportation requirements."

The North Western can provide a substantially more efficient service for the ore producers in the area if the volume of ore is concentrated over one dock, said Provo. The new dock at Escanaba was designed to "meet all foreseeable requirements of the producers," he added.

Doubtful Duplication

"Because of our willingness and ability to cooperate completely to satisfy Hanna's requirements as it presented them to us, we did not believe Hanna would give serious consideration to an operation involving acquisition of land and construction of several miles of railroad from the Escanaba & Lake Superior Railroad, Hanna's wholly-owned subsidiary, to the Groveland Mine and unnecessarily duplicate our existing facilities," Provo told the Council.

The North Western has participated in the development of the Upper Peninsula for more than a century, said Provo. Its ability to provide public service and further aid in the development of the region "depends largely on the revenues we receive from hauling iron ore," Provo added.

Single Dock Efficient

Consolidation, rather than construction of duplicating facilities, is necessary in helping the iron ore economy, he continued. The efficiency of one-dock operation rather than several has been demonstrated in Escanaba and the Milwaukee Road pooled its iron ore operations with those of the North Western at Escanaba as early as 1935, said Provo.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has repeatedly warned that unnecessary duplication of facilities or services already produced by common carrier railroads in Upper Michigan would not only injure those railroads but would be contrary to the public interest," said Provo.

LS&I Case Cited
He pointed out that in 1958 the ICC rejected a proposal of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railroad to build a dock on Little Bay de Noc opposite Gladstone at the expense of the North Western as a common carrier, and that such a dock would divert ore traffic and that "loss of such traffic would

Many Leave Home And Most Return

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Most of the people who run away from home are juveniles, and most of them come back—but not so with older persons who may walk out never to return.

That's so at least at the Escanaba level, where statistics show 36 persons were listed as runaways or missing from their homes so far this year. Only two failed to return home.

While the national picture shows a rising tide of runaways among juveniles, the local figures are rather reassuring. Although the Escanaba statistics are for both juveniles and adults, they indicate no growing unrest with home situations that can be solved only by running away.

Six Stayed Away

For instance, 40 persons were reported missing in Escanaba in 1962. Thirty-seven returned home. Thirty-six went over the hill in 1963 and all came back. In 1964 the figures were 35 missing and all but one returned.

Forty-one left home in 1965 and 55 were reporting missing in 1966. They all came back.

"Most are located within a short time, perhaps returning within a few hours or the next day," said Police Chief Joseph Corcoran. "Others may be lost to their families and to authorities for weeks or even months."

In total for the five years and nine months in Escanaba 243 persons walked out of their homes perhaps vowing never

According to national figures, the number of children who ran away from home increased 10 per cent in 1966 over 1965 and the rate is running even higher in the current year. Only two failed to return home.

Police in communities across the country arrested 90,246 juvenile runaways last year—almost half of them girls—and the arrest rate this year is running 10 per cent higher.

The arrest and recovery rate of runaways runs appreciably lower than the actual number of runaways, many of whom find shelter in hippie "havens", reports Time magazine. Appeals by parents in newspapers and by personal

Soo Crossing In Nahma Area OK'd By State

The Michigan Public Service Commission has authorized construction of a public crossing over the Soo Line Railroad for use by an access road to the Hiawatha National Forest in Nahma Township of Delta County.

The crossing was requested by the U.S. Forest Service.

"It has been determined that the establishment of this crossing will provide public access to the National Forest grounds for use in forest management, fire protection and recreational and commercial usage," Peter B. Spivak, Commission chairman, said. The road will be of dirt surface, suitable for location in this undeveloped area.

The crossing will be protected by advanced warning signs and reflectorized crossbucks and clear vision areas will be provided and maintained in each quadrant of the crossing.

search are often fruitless, it reports.

Chicago police picked up nearly 8,000 runaways last year—a 50 per cent climb in five years. Two thousand juveniles were reported missing from their San Francisco Bay homes in 1966 and 3,000 ran away from affluent homes in Houston.

Why Leave Home?

The situation is not the same by far in Delta County, says Lyle LeCaptain, county juvenile officer. There is no apparent increase in runaways and in most instances the children are back after their fling at independence.

"I'm sure you must remember how it was when you were a boy," he said. "You might run away just to defy your parents—but you always came back and were glad you did. It's the same with most runaway children today."

Why do children run away from home?

LeCaptain said there are certain basic situations that can spur a young person to flight.

Saddest Of All

One is a defiance of home and parental disciplines; another is a child's feeling of being rejected by society—by his own group and his family—the feeling that no one loves him; and least often is his effort to escape after having broken the law, perhaps after driving away an automobile.

The county juvenile officer believes that the parents are responsible and that when there is a continuing runaway situation they are not doing a good job with their children.

Perhaps the saddest cases of all, however, are those that do not even become statistic, LeCaptain said.

The parents care so little that they do not even report to authorities that a son or daughter is missing.

Mead Art Is Collected For National Tour

DAYTON, Ohio — A leading example of business support for the arts will be featured when the 44 paintings and collages of The Mead Corp. Collection opens an exhibition on Oct. 2 at Villanova University.

Never before publicly presented in its entirety, the collection embarks on a 15-month tour of U.S. universities with this showing.

Included in the exhibition, entitled "The Mead Corporation Collects," are pop, abstract, and representational works by 40 American artists.

The purchase of contemporary paintings has been a major feature of Mead's continuing effort to make a significant contribution to the country's cultural development.

Approximately 10,000 entries have been submitted by artists to Mead's competitions. From the works selected for exhibition by art professionals, Mead has purchased those now comprising its permanent collection.

Mead's most recent art program, "Art Across America," was cited in June by Esquire magazine, which awarded the corporation one of the first Business in the Arts Awards for participating in an outstanding program to bring the fine arts to wider audience in its community."

States Agree On Tax Plan

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Indiana and Michigan have agreed on a plan to prevent a "double whammy" income tax on persons who work in one state and live in another. Indiana State Revenue Commissioner William L. Fortune has announced.

Each state will collect income taxes from its own residents rather than Indiana employers withholding taxes from workers living in Michigan, he said.

Indiana and Kentucky worked out the same type of agreement several years ago. Michigan's income withholding tax law goes into effect Oct. 1.

Fortune signed the agreement worked out with Michigan Revenue Commissioner Clarence W. Lock and returned it to Michigan Thursday.

Fortune said the agreement probably would prove most beneficial to Michigan residents working in Gary, Hammond, East Chicago, South Bend and Elkhart areas.

The Ford Strike

Ken Bannon, director of the United Auto Workers Ford Department, says of the current strike of the UAW in Ford plants, idling 160,000 workers and causing an increasing shutdown in suppliers' plants, that it has "six weeks to go." It is in its third week.

The Auto Workers were expected to strike this fall and they did. They hit Ford first, but their leaders are saying that they're going to hit General Motors, too, and that they must do it before big GM builds up too big a stock of 1968 models.

There is reason for public acceptance of a strike in the auto industry, no matter how disruptive and costly — and it's certainly that — because a strike means that management has not ceased to manage. There has been a growing public feeling that collective bargaining has been perverted into a process by which the union makes a demand, the employer accepts it, adds the cost of package to the cost of his product and the public pays the bill.

The Auto Workers have internal troubles. The 115,000 skilled trades men who belong to the UAW are very unhappy about their wage increases as UAW members. They average about $4 an hour take home pay and are demanding at least $1 an hour for each of the next three years of the new contract to get some of the fat pay that unions in the building trades have been racking up — pay of as much as $7.88 and even $9 an hour plus fringe benefits.

The skilled workers create a pressure, but there are many others on Walter Reuther, head of the UAW, to make the auto companies accept a big fat package of wage increases and benefits this year. Some of the pressures are created by Reuther himself. He's 60 and a dedicated unionist and welfarist. He always wants employers to cut up their income to give workers a bigger share, but this year is a special one.

Other unions have made it big. The Johnson Administration has given in trying to keep wage increases at 2.2 per cent a year (the rough equivalent of increased efficiency.) And there's a power play on the AFL-CIO with President George Meany saying in effect "We're going pretty well" and with Reuther, who wants to inherit, saying "We're not doing well enough; we've lost our missionary zeal and deserted labor's quest of a better society."

Reuther is out to show Meany, and a big victory in the auto industry will help mightily.

The UAW hit Ford first because a strike at Ford doesn't create such a big drain on the union's $67 million strike benefits fund. Even so it's $1.5 million a week, but it would be twice as costly to strike GM, the prime target for the Auto Workers. A single striker gets $90 a week from the fund and a couple or wage earner with a dependent $95 and a family $30. Bannon says the strike fund could last as long as 11 weeks.

Ford's first offer to the UAW was worth 5.2 per cent increase a year. It included a 13 cents an hour boost right away and 2.8 per cent wage increases in 1968 and 1969 and a 24 per cent boost in pension benefits. This would give workers at 30 years a $157.50 monthly pension, and improvements in their vacation pay, hospital insurance and unemployment benefits.

The union rejected it. Detroit is expecting a long strike and a big settlement, something over 6 per cent a year. Even after the settlement there won't be work, because there are at the present time 6,800 local plant grievances filed against Ford by the UAW and they must be cleared up before production is resumed.

There's speculation that Chrysler might settle without a strike, but a near certainty that General Motors will shut down before it gets Reuther to sign. The prospect of prolonged trouble results because the contestants are rich.

The Rabbit met me on the way to the club and said he wanted to play that new Swiss gadget where the jump response of four clubs to a major opening showed a good fit, a couple of aces and a singleton. I begged him not to play it. I said that I was unfamiliar with it and did everything in my power to discourage him to no avail. He had read about it, liked it and was going to play it."

Ann Landers

Ridicule Of Blind Is Beneath Contempt

Dear Ann Landers: May I markable women of any century give some advice to the young girl who wants to know if she should sacrifice her own college degree and go to work to put her husband through medical school?

The answer is NO. I did it and it was the biggest mistake of my life.

I was 20 when I married Bill. I had two years of college and he was entering med school. I went to work to put him through because I thought it was the right thing to do. Before I knew it he was asking me to call him "Doctor" because it sounded "more professional." (He was calling me "Stupid" and a few other things.)

I sat home typing his papers while he went to campus functions. (I didn't fit in — different world, he said.)

Well, our worlds have been different, all right. Now he is a successful physician and I might as well be on Mrs. In small ways he reminds me that I am intellectually inferior to him and that he outgrew me years ago. I thought he'd love and respect me more if I gave up my chance so he could have his. I was, unfortunately, MISTAKEN.

Dear Mistaken: You gave up. Period. Instead of feeling inadequate all these years, why didn't you go back to school? EASY? Of course not. But not impossible. Bill may be an ingrate, but you shouldn't conclude that all wives who helped put husbands through school are sorry.

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago I watched an evening TV show where the host has guests from every walk of life. The guest I am writing about was taking a terrible chance because from the way she looked she could have had her baby right there in the studio.

This woman started by putting down the telephone company for their "lousy service" and "rude operators." Then she said, "The colors of the phones these days are enough to make a person sick. They look as if Helen Keller picked them out." After that shocking remark she closed her eyes and started to paw the air — imitating a blind person.

In all my life I have never seen anything that made me so mad. Please comment on this.

— LETTING OFF STEAM Dear Steam: Your indignation is certainly justified. Helen Keller is one of the most remarkable women of our time.

Pool Proponents May Ask Referendum

Community Center Bids Asked By City Oct. 16

Bids for the construction of a new community center building to replace time-worn Club 314 will be opened by the Escanaba City Council at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 16.

The cost of the structure is estimated at $300,000; it will be financed with Catherine Bonfas trust funds; and construction will begin early enough this fall so that work can be continued through the winter months.

The project went into its final stage with the approval of the City Council in meeting Thursday night at the City Hall, but not until after a discussion that will probably bring to the people an advisory referendum on another project—a swimming pool.

Watertower Site

The final plans for the new community center, which will be constructed at the water-tower site, were presented to the Council by Norman Arntzen of Arntzen & Arntzen, Escanaba architects. The Council okayed the plans, which subsequently had the approval of the Recreation Board and the Planning Commission.

A related action by the Council was the authorizing of a petition to Circuit Court to gain sanction to use the Bonfas funds, a gift to the city, for the recreation and community services center. Council acts as trustee of the funds and court approval is required for their expenditure.

Paul Vardigan, city recreation director, reported to Council on a survey he has conducted relating to cost, administration and operation of community swimming pools. Most pools are operated on school property, he said.

Adventists To Offer Free Bibles, Guides

During the past few years series of Bible study guides to surveys taken recently, high Sevent-day Adventists have persons interested in learning school students could not name more about their Bible. All the four Biblical gospels, many Bible references in the study defined an epistle as the wife of an apostle, and a large number could not give the origin of certain Biblical sayings that are used in everyday speech."

This week, according to Pastor John Erhard, the Escanaba Seventh-day Adventist Church, located at 210 S. 23rd St. is going to spread the Bible to an even wider audience through a nation-wide program called "Gift Bible Evangelism".

"With the avalanche of poor reading matter on our newsstands today we need to develop in our young people a taste for the reading of the Holy Scriptures and other good literature," stated Pastor Erhard.

"The Bible is not only a basis for Christian ethics, it is also good literature of which Bible, either a King James or every individual needs to call type of modern man, or a Douay version, along with a have a working knowledge. In homo sapiens.

"You pays your money and you takes your choice!"

Remember how nice it was to have old Mr. Bailey (or Mr. Banducci, or Mr. Bernstein) say Good Morning? And ask about how the oldest was doing at school this semester? And tell you about his azaleas and wasn't it a shame the way the Town Council was handling the park?

And maybe we forget that there wasn't any lettuce in the winter. That you had your choice of one brand of canned Salmon. That in the summer, the one sure topic at the dinner table was whether or not the butter had really turned too much to use.

The fact is, Mr. Bailey had the only game in town. He didn't have too much competition—and you didn't have too much choice.

These days, if your regular store doesn't have bagels or fresh strawberries or convenient parking or nice clerks or seven different kinds of snack crackers ...well, you don't even stop to think about it—you just go to a store that does. That's the way the system works—"you pays your money and you takes your choice", including conversation, if you want it.

Closet Can Play Variety Of Roles

How many closets in your home? Five? Eight? Twelve? No matter. Each of them undoubtedly is at capacity. If you had less or more, the same would be true. All of us are inclined to use the space that is available—and to get along without that which is not.

One builder says he has stopped adding closets to each series of homes he constructs "because no matter how many there are, someone comes along and suggests that one or two more could have been used."

Another residential developer, Roy Server, suggests that at least one closet can be prevented from becoming a catch-all for "junk" by utilizing it for other purposes.

Especially in the case of storage areas that have sliding doors, "a bit of fitting can convert closet space to a variety of alternate uses," Server points out. And the techniques can be helpful to apartment dwellers as well as homeowners.

His suggestions:

1. Remove the sliding doors from a walk-in closet, fit its sides and back with shelving and install a pull-down lamp.

Copper Strike Boosts Prices

LONDON (AP)—The 10-week-old U.S. copper strike is beginning to affect the London copper market.

One market source estimates a spot price of $1.120 a long ton in the near future, with even higher levels if the strike continues for many more weeks.

Lack of buying demand has restrained the price and there was been plenty of copper immediately available.

However, stocks are now lower and reported to be dropping, and in the last week demand has picked up, especially from American sources. "The Ford strike in the United States, while trimming demand for copper, seems to lessen the possibility of the Taft-Hartley Act being invoked," the Financial Times said Thursday.

With the market thus becoming more inclined to rising values, the excuse for pushing them still higher is certainly provided by the increasingly damaging effect the U.S. strike is having on the world copper situation, the Times added.

Andy Lang Has Answer

By ANDY LANG

QUESTION: We have vertical wood planks in our attic. We finished them with varnish before they were installed. That was about two years ago. Because we are now changing the whole motif of the attic to satisfy our teen-age daughter, we want to paint the planks a bright color. Is it necessary to remove all the varnish? We would like to avoid that if possible, since we did it to a table a year ago and found it a very messy job.

ANSWER: No, you do not have to remove the varnish. The paint can be applied directly over it. However, certain steps are necessary in order for the paint to adhere properly. It is likely that the planks have picked up a considerable amount of dust. Wipe them with a clean cloth moistened with denatured alcohol. Change the cloth as soon as it gets dirty so that you don't just spread the dust around from one place to another. When everything is completely dry—which will be quickly, as the alcohol evaporates almost at once—look for shiny areas. Paint does not grip on glossy surfaces. Wherever you find a shine, sand it lightly with a fine grade of sandpaper or steel wool. Then wipe, again with denatured alcohol, to be sure all pieces of grit are picked up. It is then okay to go ahead with the painting.

(Another advantage of cartridges is that you can change from one color to another with

Let Tree Breathe

If you plant trees in the fall, don't set them too deep. This, according to the Bartlett tree experts, causes improper aeration of the roots, slower growth and eventual decline.

Even eight years after planting, some trees fail to show normal buttressing of the trunk as it enters the soil line.

Suffering most from deep plantings are dogwoods. In some areas the pin oak, which normally adjusts readily, shows serious damage from improper planting.

"As you, the City Commission, and other segments of our community work for justice and harmony, it is incredible that city emblem is the complete antithesis of these goals," Newby continued.

Battle Creek Mayor Preston Kool said today he had not seen the letter and could make no comment until he had seen it.

The Battle Creek city seal depicts an Indian in a half-sitting position on the ground with one hand raised while standing over him is a white man holding a rifle with butt end in a downward position.

Calking Is Cheap Home Protection

Any homeowner who does not periodically renew the calking around his house is ignoring the least expensive and one of the most effective methods of protecting his home.

Properly applied, calking will keep out cold drafts, moisture and insects. During the winter, it prevents heat loss.

Thanks to pre-filled cartridges and inexpensive guns for application, calking requires little outlay for equipment and material and virtually no skill except the ability to follow instructions and work carefully.

Calking is a puttylike material blended of pigments and oils. Even after application it remains elastic for a long time so that it will expand and contract along with the surfaces it adheres to.

Calking will stick to wood, metal and masonry. It is used to seal the joints and cracks in these materials.

It is available in bulk form and in disposable cartridges. Also available are tubes which can be squeezed for application and no gun is needed.

A calking gun that uses bulk compound costs several times more than a cartridge gun. The bulk compound, however, will average less cost per ounce.

But for the average homeowner, the cartridge and the inexpensive gun is the best buy. Compound in bulk would probably be more than he could use, and there is the indisputable convenience of pre-loaded cartridges.

White and gray are the usual colors for calking, although black is available for use inside gutters and around roofs. It gets its color from the asphalt it contains. Unlike the white and gray, black compounds cannot be painted over.

(Another advantage of cartridges is that you can change from one color to another with

Ask Battle Creek To Change City's 'Violent' Seal

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—The Battle Creek regional director of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission wants the Battle Creek city fathers to change the city seal because it is "racist and violent."

In a letter to the Battle Creek City Commission, Robert G. Newby asked that the commission, at its next regular meeting, make the city seal issue the first item of business.

He said the seal, adopted about 1891, is "racist and violent because it pictures a white man hitting an unarmed Indian with a rifle butt."

"As you, the City Commission, and other segments of our community work for justice and harmony, it is incredible that city emblem is the complete antithesis of these goals," Newby continued.

Battle Creek Mayor Preston Kool said today he had not seen the letter and could make no comment until he had seen it.

STYLISH RANCH: Crisp and modern lines distinguish exterior design of this three-bedroom ranch, which combines

V-joint siding with brick for interesting effect. Garage doors can be located on opposite side if size of lot permits.

Informal Theme In Ranch

By ANDY LANG

Exposed beams, following the roof line, increase the feeling of spaciousness in this style. L-shaped, three-bedroom, 2½-bath ranch house of temporary design. A cathedral ceiling in the entrance foyer, living room area add height to the rooms.

Although other materials could be substituted for the exterior, the plans call for 1" by 6" rough-sawn, bleached, red-toeiling sectional windows, cedar vertical V-joint siding, and bottom-venting hinged with two interesting brick "privacy" walls. The low-pitched white gravel asphalt-shingled roof is specified for its reflecting and insulating value. There

The three bedrooms are nicely arranged, with excellent ventilation and just enough of a garage, the laundry and the outside. The balance of the plan is constructed over a three-foot crawl space. A cathedral ceiling in the entrance foyer, living room area add height to the rooms.

All parts of the design radiate from the main foyer which is 16' long and makes a fine reception area. Straight ahead is the living room with its floor-to-ceiling sectional windows.

For informal entertaining, the family room has all the necessary attributes: accessibility to the kitchen, a fireplace, wood-paneled sidewalls, and open-beamed ceiling and floor-to-ceiling glass doors that lead to the outdoor sitting and recreation area. Note, too, that unlike most family rooms, it has two spacious closets. The family room is well located to keep other parts of the house free from traffic. And its proximity to the kitchen makes it convenient for the person who does the serving.

The oversized two-car garage connects directly with the laundry room. Depending on personal preference or lot width, the garage doors may be located at the front rather than as shown in the plans. Space is available for garden tools, lawn chairs, toys and other equipment. The laundry room to the right of the kitchen has access to the outside as well as to the garage.

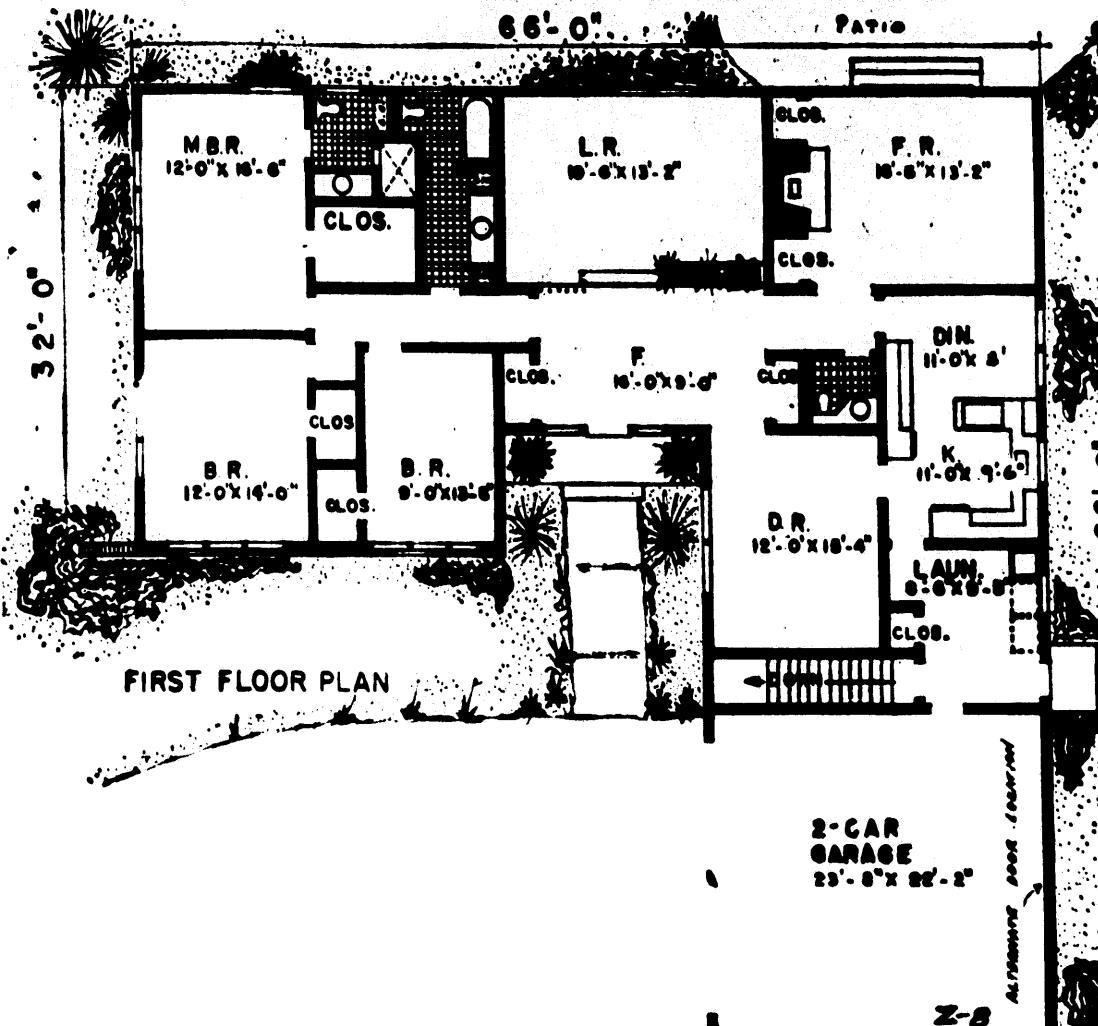

The step-saving, U-shaped kitchen has a full complement of appliances, a large countertop area and a maximum number of cabinets in a minimum amount of space. The picture window in the dinette and the window over the kitchen sink assure plenty of light and air.

It is rare indeed when, as in this case, the lady of the house can move from the dining room to the kitchen, living room, dining room, laundry, family room or bedroom wing and never once set foot in any other room.

For those who are oriented to the convenience of one-level living and have the land which can handle this house, design Z-8 provides everything for modern comfortable living.

MICHIGAN CONSOLIDATED GAS COMPANY

Staff Work, Equipment Save A Life At Hospital

The most recent addition to the equipment used in the laboratory at St. Francis Hospital is a complex instrument for measuring the acidity of blood called a blood pH meter.

This instrument is capable of accurately detecting changes in acidity of one part in 100 million. This means that if one ounce of pure acid were added to 75,000 gallons of blood, the instrument would be able to detect the change in acidity. To do this the instrument requires only three one-thousandths of an ounce of blood.

Such a degree of accuracy is necessary because a change in the acidity of a patient's blood as little as 20 parts in 100 million is fatal. Changes of 10 parts per 100 million are enough to make a person seriously ill.

With the widespread use of fluids given intravenously in the treatment of patients, this instrument is of great benefit in helping the physician decide which specific fluid to give, and when enough fluid has been given.

In the short time that this instrument has been in use at St. Francis Hospital it has saved the life of one patient who had surgery. The surgical procedure was done correctly and without any obvious complication.

The patient should have been doing very well after the operation. Instead he was so ill that his physician expected the patient to die, even though there seemed to be no good reason for the patient to be so ill.

The blood acidity test showed that the patient's blood was too acid. With the proper fluid given by vein, the patient promptly began to feel better and within 24 hours was out of danger.

Who saved that patient's life? It was not the physician alone, because he could not know what was wrong with the patient before the acidity test was done. Was it the technologist who did the acidity test? She could not have done the test if the instrument was not there, and if she had not been trained to use it properly.

Perhaps the pathologist saved this patient's life by making arrangements for the equipment to be there. He could not have made those arrangements without the cooperation of the hospital administrator in providing the necessary money for this expensive instrument. All the money in the world, however, would not provide the instrument without the engineering skill and medical research which made the instrument possible.

Actually, no individual saved this patient's life. A large number of people working together under the title of modern medicine, and intensely concerned with providing better medical care, saved this patient. In these days of confusion and irritation concerning medical care, it is notable that our system is capable of saving lives by such precise methods as the instrument for measuring acidity.

In this system the engineer, far removed from the patient's bedside, has helped to save human life, as well as each of all the other individuals down the line to the physician who is treating the patient. The failure of any one of these individuals to carry out his part of the service results in loss of human life.

Such failures are not necessarily due to individual lack of desire or ability to do his part, say medical experts. In the case described, the hospital administrator would not be at fault for not having this instrument if the pathologist failed to advocate its use.

Nor would the pathologist be at fault if there was no available technician to operate the equipment. Frustrating as the cost of medical care has been in recent years, the good that is being done in small, as well as large, hospitals, is impressive to medical historians. Through advances in medical care reaching out from individuals in the medical research centers to manufacturers and to community hospitals, lives of sick people in a community like Escanaba are saved by the use of remarkably precise instruments such as this blood pH meter.

Bernard Goldfine Dies In Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Industrialist Bernard Goldfine, lifelong friend of former presidential aide Sherman Adams, died at his home today at age 76. His White House presents drew nationwide attention in 1958.

The one-time millionaire textile tycoon had sent expensive gifts to President Dwight D. Eisenhower and to Adams, the former New Hampshire governor who was Eisenhower's top aide.

Goldfine's life was marked by congressional investigation, conviction of nearly $800,000 in tax evasion and a jail term.

The cause of his death was not immediately revealed.

Dairy Farmers Ask Support Of Price Strikes

One hundred thirty-eight farmers belonging to the Stephenson-Carney Local of the Pure Milk Products Cooperative meeting at Potvin's Fire Side Inn, Schaffer, Sept. 19 proposed that the annual meeting at Fond du Lac on Oct. 31 support milk withholding efforts to force prices up.

The withholding action has been most strongly advocated by the National Farmers Organization, which within the past year conducted a milk strike in the Upper Peninsula which failed to seriously impede marketing of milk or to force up prices.

The resolution which the local will offer to the Pure Milk convention will urge that "Pure Milk Products Cooperative act at once on bargaining to fight and strike with all farm organizations withholding milk from all markets for higher prices."

To the Local's board members, Russell Beauchamp, Escanaba; Gerald Poupart, Carney; John Butterfield, Wausau, Wis.; Steve Baboloni, Vulcan, and Joseph Van Pembrook, Iron Mountain, there were added these new directors: Harry Hanchek, Carney and Ray Berger, Wilson.

Officers elected by the Local are: Joseph Welch, Perronville, president; Raymond Berger, Wilson, vice president; Michael G. Pach, Perronville, secretary-treasurer.

Other locals represented at the dinner meeting were Marquette, Brillion and Fond du Lac.

James Locke, PMPC editor talked about foreign markets for dairy products and a new milk product, a macaroni called Milk Ko Mac, manufactured by Pure Milk Products Cooperative.

PMPC, which has about 16-

000 members in Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois, reports service to 450 members in the Menominee-Delta area, which makes up its District 8.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the local elected as officers: Mrs. Michael Pach, Perronville, president; Mrs. Joseph Welch, Perronville, vice president; Mrs. Clarence Diltrich, Bark River, secretary; and Mrs. Leon Charter, Wilson, treasurer and Mrs. Gordon McLeod, Spalding, director.

severely injure the North Western and its ability to serve the public generally."

Provo said that nowhere in the many states served by the North Western was this ICC finding "more applicable than in the Upper Peninsula where the general low level of industrial activity has resulted in substantial excess capacity for the railroads and where unnecessary duplication of facilities works against the public welfare."

Hanna Co. Position

The position of the Hanna Mining Co., presented by Bartholomew, was prefaced with the comment: "Here are the facts."

"The Hanna Mining Co. likes doing business in Escanaba. We have been shipping ore through this port for many years and we are going to continue doing so in the future. The port of Escanaba has many natural advantages and we intend to take advantage of them," he said.

"The most important fact has to do with economics. Michigan iron ore pellets must stay competitive with many millions of tons of pellets that are being made today in all parts of the Lake Superior region and the St. Lawrence Seaway area."

Transport Major Cost

"A major part of the cost of iron ore pellets is transportation," Bartholomew continued. "New and modern transportation techniques make sizeable cost reductions possible. If Michigan pellets are to remain competitive, these transportation cost reductions must be shared with the producers and the consumers of pellets. Other ports are being modernized. Other areas are taking advantage of year round unit train operation."

"Fact is that other railroads that handle pellets have recognized this and have made substantial reductions in their pellet rates."

Must Compete

Bartholomew explained that Hanna's Michigan pellets must compete with pellets produced by Reserve Mining Co., Erie Mining, U. S. Steel and other companies which own their own railroads and dock facilities.

"Hanna is studying the feasibility of building our own dock in Escanaba, solely because we cannot get a realistic and competitive rate out of North Western," the Hanna official said.

"Our preliminary studies show that we can build a dock in Escanaba and handle our own pellets at considerably less cost per ton than the rate demanded by the North Western Railway. We are prepared to do this," Bartholomew stated.

Will Use Port

He said he wanted to assure the people of this area "that Hanna pellets will continue to move through the port of Escanaba. We like it here and we intend to do everything possible to keep our Groveland plant, on the Menominee Range, competitive with Minnesota and Canadian pellet plants."

The City Council adopted a scheduled resolution of intent to initiate the industrial development bonds for North Western terminal financing. Councilman Edward J. Cox, noting his North Western employment and a possible conflict of interest, abstained from voting.

The Council noted that should North Western and Hanna come to agreement on rates, the way is opened by the city to assist the North Western with its expansion financing. If the dock project is not reopened by the C&NW, no bonds will be issued, of course.

Teen Buying Power Dominates Fashion

MIXED-UP FASHION MOGULS RUN FOR COVER: Teeny power throws high-browed, high-powered, high-priced fashion priests and priestesses into total panic. No matter what they predict, teens continue to dress as they please, creating and sustaining more of their very own fashion trends. That means more minis, tights and way-out, way-in hosiery. Adults will continue to copy the teen trend. Even many school districts considering and accepting skirts three inches above the knee. Results: Fashion people try to cover all bases, long, short and in-between . . . on the same girl at the same time! Short dress, long coat and in-between boots make a typical outfit. Also, this season's collections feature shorts for day, long dresses for night. Teens continue to show a fine disdain for adult fashion dictators as obnoxious to them as all "put up jobs" from the upper world. The top fashion trade papers are centuries behind teen times and well behind the 8-ball. While insisting that fashions get belted, they are the ones getting belted! If they don't catch on and catch up to teen power in fashion, it will get worse. Retailers are weary of getting a false picture of teens wants and needs from pseudo soothsayers of the trade.

LUV GONE WRONG: Irresponsible Radio . . . The FCC is catching on like fast to the "yellow sell," the "psychedelic sell," "luv child" sell and "dove child" sell — all being used in a big way by "formula radio." Hard-rock DJs work with record promoters to heap the "hippie philosophy" on teens. Most sponsors fail to catch on. The same sponsors watch other ad forms like hawks, while at the same time irresponsible radio sends teens like droves to the subliminal slaughter. Parents, sponsors, station owners and teens all should be alert to the sell. One disgruntled musician from a well-known hard-rock group confirms the fact that a now-accepted medium of payola from certain record promoters and some DJs is "trip" material — marijuana, LSD, heroin, STP and other drugs. At last the FCC is beginning to get the thinly disguised mass message. Fast, sensible action would avoid a congressional hearing and a messy national scandal.

TRAGEDY HITS THE ROAD: Auto accidents kill more American males between the ages of 16 and 24 than anything else . . . including the Vietnam War!

EYE MAKE-UP NOW VIES 50/50 with lipstick among teens on answering questionnaire of "Make-up I would take on a trip to the INNER earth."

HIPPIES CULT NOT RELIGIOUS: Would you believe attempts being made by some sympathetic academicians to equate "hippies" to early Christians? The idea is to give the movement respectability. Rev. Nicholas Phelps, Episcopal chaplain at UCLA, shoots the theory down. Says hippies spend their time avoiding the world . . . not trying to improve it. What's so Christian about that?

A PICKLE A DAY: Pickles instead of apples or bananas. Fans contend that pickles are less fattening, cheaper and good for you. They even have a word for their madness: "psychedillie." This delicious turn of events turns on pickle people and confounds the fruit pushers.

BEAUTIFUL WARNING (to cosmetic marketers): If you don't give teens what they can believe in, they'll create their own. A couple of late examples: (1) Body paint: needs brighter colors. Teens up and added food coloring to get the effect they wanted. (2) Toenail enamel. Some on the market turned out to be too thick — hard to apply. Teens used it for skin paint and decorated their legs, arms and bodies. (Give fits to the manufacturer because of allergy dangers.) Demonstrates the inventiveness of today's "lost generation!" "Return of the Pa'ed Lady?"

"Berlinski is greatly underrated because he has been playing in the shadow of senior Dwight Lee. But our coaching staff thinks very highly of him. He and Reggie Caverand are the two best blockers on the team. We may be using Dick as a deep man on kickoffs and punt returns to take advantage of his strong running ability, too," Daugherty stated.

The injury bugaboo has hit the Iron Mountain football team . . . Regular halfback Wally Menzel was sidelined with a fractured vertebrae in the game against Iron River . . . Iron Mountain's other first string halfback, John Benso, is out of action with a broken collarbone.

Gladstone has also had more than its share of football injuries this season . . . Red Sox, Twins Post Victories, Retain Deadlock

By The Associated Press
GARY BELL, sitting in the clubhouse waiting for the rain to stop so he could find out if he was a winner or a loser, was nervous. And the Boston Red Sox, facing four games with a very live ghost, feel the same way.

Bell pitched 6 1/3 innings in Boston's 6-5 victory over Cleveland Thursday night, but was out of the game when rain came in the ninth inning, delaying the outcome for over an hour.

"I was more nervous sitting here in the clubhouse listening to the radio than I was in the game," said Bell, now 13-12, and then his thoughts turned to Baltimore, which starts a four-game series with the Red Sox, having won seven of their last eight games.

"They're the toughest team in the league right now," Bell said. At last year's pennant winner now tied for sixth place, "They're as tough as they were last season when they won the pennant. They've got everybody back."

Boston's victory, coupled with Minnesota's 4-0 win over Kansas City, left the Red Sox and Twins in a deadlock for the American League lead. Chicago is one game out and Detroit 1 1/2 games back. Both the White Sox and Tigers were idle Thursday.

Washington beat Baltimore 4-3 in 11 innings in the only other American League game and, in the day's only National League contest, Atlanta beat St. Louis 4-2.

Duffy Has Three Goals For Spartans This Year

EAST LANSING (AP) — A third straight Big Ten title, a fourth crack at the Rose Bowl and a clear-cut victory over top-ranked Notre Dame are the Michigan State football ambitions this fall.

Coach Duffy Daugherty, a fellow with banquet circuit image of an amiable, joke-spouting Irishman, ranks the 1967 goals in just that order of importance. In conference football teams would like nothing better than a win back-to-back championships. But no Big Ten team ever has won three in a row.

"That should be incentive enough in itself," said Daugherty.

Two years ago, the Spartans lost a heart breaker to UCLA in the Rose Bowl, 14-12. MSU couldn't make the Pasadena trip last year because of the no-repeat rule but will be eligible again this fall.

The 10-10 tie with Notre Dame last year still ranks at East Lansing. Michigan State ranks

Plum Is No. 1 Again, Will Get Call Sunday

DETROIT (AP) — Milt Plum is the Detroit Lions' No. 1 quarterback again and he expects to steer the National Football League team to a lot of victories this fall.

Plum was injured early last season and rookie Karl Sweeten took over for him. The Lions stumbled to a dismal 4-9-1 season, but Sweeten sparked at times.

Coach Harry Gilmer was fired and Joe Schmidt, a former Lion linebacker, was named the new head coach. Schmidt, two years ago a teammate of Plum, said he'd see how the quarterbacks looked in the exhibition season before naming his top man for the regular season.

Plum and Sweeten alternated halves as Detroit went 3-2 in exhibition games. But when the chips went down last Sunday in the regular-season opener at Green Bay against the World Champion Packers, Plum was No. 1. Detroit, a 13-point underdog, responded with a 17-17 tie.

"When you have a running game it alleviates a lot of things," Plum explained. "It controls the ball, uses up time. And if they set their defenses to stop the running game, then you can pass."

Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State has coached the East team on three occasions in the East-West Shrine Game at San Francisco.

Westrum Quits; Yogi Next Boss Of Lowly Mets?

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Tigers, minus the services of star pitcher Denny McLain, take on Washington tonight in a twi-night doubleheader that is crucial to their pennant hopes.

At this stage of the game, in fact, every contest is crucial.

The Tigers, with nine games to play in their regular season schedule, are in fourth place in the American League standings.

But they're only 1 1/2 games behind the leaders—Minnesota and Boston.

Sandwiched in between, are the Chicago White Sox.

Berra's stock appeared to have been unintentionally boosted by M. Donald Grant, the Mets' board chairman, Thursday when Westrum's resignation was announced at a press conference.

"We're looking for a man who can satisfy the board, the press and the fans," said Grant, adding, "one that can win us the pennant."

Yogi, former star catcher for the New York Yankees and currently a Mets coach, is among the game's most popular figures as far as the New York baseball writers and the fans are concerned.

Hodges, too, personifies what the Mets say they are looking for in a new manager. He was among the favorites of the fans and the press when he played first base for the Brooklyn Dodgers from 1947 through 1957 and for the Mets in 1962 and 1963.

Westrum's departure was not unexpected although it was believed he would wait on a post-season decision by the management.

"I came to the conclusion that the strain of waiting in addition to the mental and physical strain of managing had become increasingly severe," he explained.

He is also 1-for-1 as a big league manager, having led the Yanks to the American League pennant in 1964. He was dismissed after the club lost the World Series in seven games to the St. Louis Cards.

The Mets, heading for another last place finish after a ninth place standing in 1966, have also fallen off in home attendance.

With the current Shea Stadium attendance at 1,520,000, the club will probably finish close to 400,000 under last year's final total.

Bing Devine will be expected to draw up a list of managerial candidates from which he will make recommendations." Grant said, also referring to the club president.

The selection is not expected to be made until next month. However, Alvin Dark, Harry Walker and Gil Hodges are reportedly among the others who will be considered.
